The Markets

NEW YORK, May 14 — Money on call easy 1½ to 2; prime mercantile paper 4 to 5, sterling exchange, actual rates 4 86½ for sixty days, 4 88½ for demand, Governments dull, state bonds Uncertainty in regard to the forthcoming statement of the New York Central, troubles of the Lake Shore and Nickel Plate, and unfavorable statement of earnings of the St. Paul published lately, made the stocks conspicuously weak at the opening to-day. The remainder of the entire list were within ½ per cent of last night's close, but the market was weak from the opening to the close with hardly a rally worthy of the name The market in general evidently is nothing but a traders' market.

The Mail and Express says Mining shares were strong and very dull with principal sales in Rappahannock at 16, Bulwer 1 70, Sierra Nevada 50 to 55 Standard 1, Sutro Tunnel 12 Silver Kings, Deadwood 1 70 to 1 85.

The Labor Committee's Work

ST LOUIS, May 14 — The Curtin labor investigating committee held its last session in this city to day and will leave for Washington to night Martin Irons testified that the officials of the road ignored the provisions of the March agreement, and named instances where grievances of their employes were never considered The discharge of Hall on the Texas Pacific was the immediate cause of the strike This was not however the sole reason, but it was the last of many grievances which made the strike necessary He had tried to settle the affair before the strike

Strike and Violence

ST LOUIS, May 14 Workmen in the Belcher sugar refinery struck yesterday for an advance in wages In the afternoon several new men were engaged to fill their places This they objected to and collecting around the refinery attacked and beat every new man they could lay hands on Police were summoned and dispersed the crowd, who retreated muttering vengeance. A detail of officers are guarding the works to-day.

Advance Demanded

PITTSBURG, May 14 Secret petitions are in circulation among employes of the Pennsylvania railway asking general advance in wages of 10 per cent. The movement, it is claimed, is backed by Knights of Labor, and is to include both passenger and freight men and all men in yards.

Returning to Work

The Missing Man Found

CHICAGO, May 14 — A man named Louis Linge was arrested this evening while loitering at No 80 Ambrose street The police positively declare that he is the man who threw the death-dealing bomb into the Haymarket a week ago Tuesday. Before that date Linge lived on Osborne avenue, but up to this evening had not been seen since the massacre. His capture was made on information given by one of the Arbeiter Zeitung employes Police say there is no shadow of doubt of the man's guilt, and events of to-night throw some credibility on their statement It is thought the arrest is one of the most important made yet, with the exception of the capture of the instigators of the horrible crime. Linge is said to be in the employ of Spies, and has been since May six. He is missing from the police station He was put through a rigorous examination, lasting three hours At last Linge made a full confession, the extent of which the police refuse to disclose, and detectives in large numbers were hurriedly dispatched to Clybourne avenue to arrest persons implicated by his confession It is understood that the police made no promise to Linge, but gained the information by other means, just what they refuse to say

Alderman Jachne's Trial

NEW YORK, May 14 The taking of evidence in the trial of Alderman Henry W. Jachne, charged with having accepted a bribe of $5,000 for his vote in favor of granting the franchise to the Broadway Surface railroad company for running cars on Broadway from the battery to One hundred and fifty-ninth street, was begun to-day Jas F. Twomey, clerk of the board of aldermen testified that Jachne voted to grant the franchise

Alderman Charles B Waite, who presided at the memorable meeting and who recently made a voluntary statement concerning the granting of the franchise to the authorities and has since been kept a prisoner in the hands of the district attorney, said he was interested in the Broadway franchise and did what he could to push it on account of friendship for James R. Richards, its president.

James M Lydig, who on August 27th procured an injunction forbidding the aldermen to proceed further in the Broadway matter, testified that he brought suit against the Broadway Surface road for his brother, John H Lydig. On August 30th he gave consent to discontinuance of it There was no money paid him for the release, but there was paid $12,000 to his brother John H Lydig

Police Inspector Thomas Byrnes who played on Jachne's confidence and sought to make the damaging admissions which led to his arrest, was sworn and told the story how he worked himself into Jachne's confidence in Washington at the time of President Cleveland's inauguration Jachne told him that Lidy Mahoney got hold of the board and had in it $100,000 to $150,000 because he had handled the money and was not the man to do it for nothing" In 1885 witness had sections talk with Jachne, up to the time of his arrest In the latter part of October 1885 they talked about the Broadway railroad and witness told defendant that they (the officers) if they were right were certain they would all be sent to prison through Mahoney who was going around talking about the money he had given them for their services Witness had another conversation with Jachne in which the latter said of Lydig that he "had made a fool of himself" Witness testified that the city hall record of Lydig's bill was taken from the files and could not be found Will [illegible] Jachne's counsel [illegible] Witness testified that he was [illegible] Jachne [illegible] Witness testified that Jachne said to him that he was sorry he had given Mahoney the money

There should be a good audience at the opera house this afternoon for two reasons. First the entertainment itself is good. It is not often that we have better singing in our opera house than that Mrs. Merrill, Miss Aiken and Mr. Durkee favored us with last night. The object for which the entertainment is given is good. The reading room is proving a great success and is occupying a field of real usefulness. Buy at least a ticket if you cannot attend.

The report of the trial of Alderman Jachne is interesting reading. The result is almost certain conviction. It is discouraging that such corruption can for a while go unpunished. But the recent investigation shows that public sentiment is sound and that this crime cannot be common or barefaced. So long as there is this sentiment corruption cannot do much harm. There are probably a good many people besides the New York alderman that are a good deal worried just now.

The largest strike in Chicago was among the lumber men. They returned to work yesterday at the old wages. We hope the crisis is over soon enough to encourage capital to invest and end the present depression. The workingmen should get wisdom from their experience and not trust such ignorant foolish leaders again. The strikes were started at a time manufacturers could not afford to increase the wages. We were on the eve of a good business season. The strike has either prevented this or put it off till fall. It has deprived the workingmen of millions of dollars in wages which they and their families needed. But still if the workingmen get wisdom from this experience, it will compensate somewhat for the loss.

Perhaps there is no better investment of money than the judicious purchase of etchings. Since Mr. Klackner has had some of works on exhibition here two illustrations of this have come to our notice in this city. One party here purchased a remark proof of "The Vesper Hour," about a year ago for $35. Since then it has greatly advanced in price. Mr. Klackner published this and his agent, Mr. Woerner, has offered $100 for it. Another party bought a remark proof of "Far Away" a little over a year ago for $30. This is now worth $100. The same is true of several other etchings which are now on exhibition here. Mr. Klackner seems to have been fortunate in publishing etchings that are popular and meet with ready sale. "The Parting Wave" by Hamilton was put on sale February 1st, this year, and February 11th all remark proofs on Japan paper were sold. "Wedding Bells in Old Trinity" was published at the same time. Now all remark proofs with five bells on Japan paper are sold. Some of the etchings now on exhibition present the same opportunities. In many cases only the artist's proofs are on sale and as soon as these are sold the price will advance as in the case of the remark proofs which are all sold.

As we said yesterday Mr. Klackner is publishing almost exclusively the work of American artists. The members of the New York Etching club are giving most of their productions to him. It is only within five years that American etchers have been distinguished and Mr. Klackner is very closely identified with this new movement. The collection in this city is representative of the best work of American etchers and those who care for etching should not miss seeing it. Mr. Woerner who has charge of the exhibition is glad to receive callers whether they purchase or not. The opportunity is a rare one and should be embraced.

China's Great Wall.

Mr. Hickenlooper, of the Davenport, (Ia.) Democrat, who is now traveling in a tour around the world, says in a recent letter to his paper, written at Peking, that the great wall of China is the greatest of the world's wonders. It crosses a mountain range and curves about forty miles from Peking, and the journey thither is rough and perilous. It took six mortal hours to make the last fifteen miles. To quote from the letter:

"Squeezing through the last deep gorge and a deep rift in the solid rock cut out by ages of rolling wheels and trampling feet, we reached the great frowning double, tri-arched gate of stone and hard-burned brick, gone archway thrubbed in. This was the end of our mission, the great wall of China, built 215 years before our era, built of great slabs of well hewn stone, laid in regular courses twenty feet high and topped out with large hard-burned brick, filled with earth and closely paved on top with more dark, tawny brick—the ramparts high and thick and castellated for use of arms. Right and left the great wall sprang from up the mountain side, then straight, now curved to meet the mountain ridge, turreted each 300 feet, a frowning mass of masonry. No need to tell you of this great wall—the books will tell you that—how it was built to keep the warlike Tartars in; how twenty-five feet high by forty (?) ft.—1,200 miles long, with room on top for six horses to be ridden abreast. Not need I tell you that for 1,400 years at least these hordes of Tartars, for that is the main the material upon it is quite as good and firm and strong as when first put in place. To tell you how time feels while standing on this vast work, scrutinizing its every nook, Rapsper old cannon, and imagining scenes above the mountain crest, were only folly. In speechless awe we strolled or sat and stood in silent wonder. Twelve hundred miles of this stupendous work, built on the rugged, cracked mountain tops, vaulting over gorges, spanning wild streams, netting the river archways with huge, hard bars of copper; with double gates, with swinging doors and bars set thick with iron armor—a wonder in the world—before which the old time classic seven wonders, all gone now save the great pyramids, are pitiful trifles—toys. The great pyramid has 85,000,000 cubic feet; the great wall 3,250,000,000 cubic feet. An engineer in Seward's party here some years ago gave it as his opinion that the cost of this wall, figuring labor at the same rate, would more than equal that of all the 100,000 miles of railroad in the United States. The stone it contained would build a wall six feet high and two feet thick right straight around the globe. Yet this was done in early years, without a trace of debt or bond. It is the greatest individual labor the world has ever known. You stand before it as before the Great Unknown and bowed and silent."

The Colonel Remembered.

Detroit Free Press.

A Detroiter who lustrily won the title of "colonel" during the war was in a town in the western part of the state the other day, and was talking over war times with several friends, when a stranger joined the group, held out his hand to the colonel, and said:

"You are Colonel Dunk, of Detroit?"

"Yes."

"Well, I'm glad to see you. Colonel, do you remember the battle of South Mountain?"

"I do."

"You led us in a charge there on the afternoon of the first day. A confederate bullet hit me in the shoulder and I fell. You picked me up, propped me against a stone wall and then led the boys on. Colonel, God bless you!"

They shook hands again, and when the stranger had moved off one of the group said:

"Why, Colonel, you were not at South Mountain."

"No."

"The man is entirely mistaken."

"Yes."

"And why didn't you tell him so?"

"Because I did not want to hurt his feelings. Such incidents occur almost daily, and I am always careful to fall into line with the man. Nothing would hurt an old veteran worse than to discover that his colonel not only did not pick him up in the battlefield, but that he never even heard of him by name."

RELIGIOUS WORLD.

Notes and Comments by Rev. J. B. Gregg.

A good house last night greeted the performers in the entertainment for the benefit of the Free Reading room. The tableaux and music were well rendered. Pandora and the Greek girls at play were especially well received. The recitation of Mrs. Eldridge was very effective and Dr. Selly read a harrowing ballad in his delightful fashion. The entertainment had the merit of brevity, occupying only about an hour and a half. It was quite free from the tedious waits which often mark an evening of tableaux. If a criticism may be ventured we would suggest that the curtain rise on the tableaux twice. One view hardly suffices. The entertainment, while not ambitious, was a very pleasant one and we cordially commend its repetition this afternoon to all of our readers who were not present last night. Let all who appreciate the peculiar value of a free reading room in a city like ours take this agreeable way of helping to secure it a generous support.

New York is finding it a costly luxury to support its prisoners in idleness. By the abolition of the contract system, the legislature appropriated $800,000 for the support of prisons that were formerly self-supporting. The sum will prove insufficient and the extra expense for the current year will aggregate over a million. In the Auburn prison 600 convicts have been kept idle for months and as the existing contracts expire the number of prisoners upon the bounty of the state of course increases. The physical and moral effects on the prisoners are no less marked than the pecuniary disadvantages. The confinement in idleness is causing restlessness and discontent, and the superintendent calls loudly upon the legislature to furnish some occupation. The tax payers of the state will doubtless emphasize his demands at the polls.

There is such a thing as amenities in religious journalism, and this is the way that one Presbyterian paper (the Interior) speaks of another: "The Herald and Presbyter says that the Interior is not noting for a controversy with it. True. Among our earliest recollections was a maternal spanking for beating a mud-puddle with a stick."

Sir William Harcourt, chancellor of the exchequer, in his financial statement in the house of commons last week, brought out a fact full of moral significance. The receipts derived from the taxation of alcohol during the last year were £1,170,000 less than those derived from the same source in 1884-5. Within the last ten years the decrease in revenue to the state from alcohol has been £1,500,000, or over $22,000,000. This great decrease, the chancellor adds, is changes in the habits of the people, and has been concurrent with an enormous increase in revenue derived from the comforts of life.

It is certainly true that you do people great harm, be they kings or beggars, when you teach them that in the long run they can eat bread which they have not earned. By mere shiftlessness, doling out this or that supply where no industry has earned it, where no sickness or other exception excuses it, you break down character and create pauperism.

This is what a lazy man does when a girl with cold hands and bare feet comes into his office crying in the winter; and the lazy man gives her half a dollar "in charity." He does it because he does not choose to go to her house nor to spare the time to really help her or her mother. And yet he wants to soiled his own conscience. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred he does more harm by his dole than he relieves. But he must not pretend that it is his charity that has worked this injury. It is only his laziness that worked it. He does that girl no good because he sets no agency at work for making her better. If he wants to be charitable he must see that while to-day's hunger is fed, and to-day's cold is warmed, she whom he would help is set on the way to lift herself out of the destitution in which he finds her. If she is drunken, she must be saved from the evils of drink; if she is ignorant of any art, she must be taught to sweep, to wash, to knit or to sew. If her house is dirty she must be taught to keep it clean. If the children's meals are badly cooked she must be taught to cook them better. You are a false friend to her, if, through the winter you only keep her along on the ground level where you found her, just above starvation, and do not lift her to a higher grade, better able to rise above the tide which will sweep down so certainly as next winter will come.

Clearly enough such help as this is rendered only by patient, personal care. It is rendered with the watchfulness with which a man guards his own soul, if he thinks he is falling into insecure habits. It is rendered by the same sort of friendly, sympathetic oversight with which a good neighbor, in a friendly country life, takes care of the growing boys in a widowed household hard by. It needs, of course, self-sacrifice, for it needs steady, unbroken attention to this one thing. At the end of ten years of such care, the brood of children of that widow are self-respecting young men and women taking care of themselves and of her. At the end of ten years of such care, this poor, trembling drunkard is a honest and shave-board man, able himself to help other poor fellows as badly off as he was. You have done these people good because you have made them better.

Whenever an employer of labor in this country, a farmer for instance, is willing to fall back on the old system and hire his "help" by the year, one point is gained for the prevention of winter pauperism in cities. Food, lodging and fuel are almost invariably cheaper in the country than they are in town. A man who can be easily fed and housed in the country has to pay a much higher rent in the city and has to buy food which has been brought from a distance. For the common good it is indeed a misfortune, in this regard, that it is so easy to transfer the laborer from the country to the city.—[Lend a Hand.

"MEASURE FOR MEASURE."

The Shakespearean Treat that We are to have At the Opera House.

Of the performance that we are to have at the opera house on Monday night the Denver Tribune-Republican of yesterday makes the following very complimentary notice:

A very charming performance of Shakespeare's romantic play, "Measure for Measure," was given at the Tabor Opera House last night by Miss Celia Alsberg and her [illegible] company, [illegible] Academy of Music [illegible] Miss Alsberg [illegible] Isabella [illegible] Mr. Morrison [illegible] Angelo [illegible] Mr. Wessels [illegible] Mr. Thompson [illegible] Mr. Staley [illegible] Mr. Paul [illegible] Mr. Wolters [illegible] Miss Alsberg's Isabella is in every respect superior to her Imogen. It is fuller, warmer and more artistic. Her conception of the character is clearly defined; and while it is not remarkable in any part of its execution, yet it is consistent, and there is an even flow to it that carries it very near to a finished performance. It does not approach greatness, because it is lacking in force and magnetism. There is much room for improvement in the use of her voice—not so much in the reading, though that is at times hurried, but in the expression. Her voice is not unsympathetic, but, as she uses it, it is very hard at times. She is not ungraceful, and yet some of her attitudes are not graceful. All of which leads to the conclusion that the faults she has may be overcome, and that she may some day be an intelligent and accomplished actress, if not a dramatic genius.

Mr. Wessels appeared to good advantage as the duke. He acted it with dignity and grace, and only now and then was his trouble with his throat noticeable. His acting gave much strength and grace to the performance. We sincerely hope that he may soon entirely recover from the disability in his voice.

Mr. Morrison's work was clear cut, well colored and finished as a whole. He showed us the Angelo of Shakespeare, subtle and determined, yet weak in his moral nature; very much of a hypocrite and yet not entirely depraved. But the excellence of the personation was occasionally marred by faulty reading. Mr. Morrison reads Shakespeare musically, but not always so as to carry the full strength of the meaning.

Mr. Wessels, Mr. Thompson, Mr. Staley, Mr. Paul and Mr. Wolters are deserving of praise for well considered and effective work.

F. E. Dow went to Denver yesterday.

J. F. Carr, H. C. McCreery and J. C. Dana went to Denver yesterday.

Mrs. Jules La Barthe went to Pueblo on the Thunderbolt yesterday.

J. B. Lucas and J. A. Hayes came down from Denver yesterday on the Thunderbolt.

Mrs. T. E. Johnson and Miss Newell returned yesterday from a few days' visit in Denver.

Bacon & Carr have been appointed agents for the Franceville coal on and after Monday May 17th.

Mr. J. G. Wells came in from the south on the early train yesterday morning and will remain over Sunday.

Send your children to the matinee this afternoon. The programme to be given will certainly interest them.

May 27th will be the next market day and the merchants and citizens generally ought to co operate in making it a success.

The closing exercises of the Deaf Mute and Blind institute will take place on the 25th instant, at which time there will also be a meeting of the board of trustees.

Mr. Olney Newell, one of the editors and proprietors of the Field and Farm at Denver, was in the city yesterday. Mr. Newell is one of the old time journalists of Colorado.

The trees that are to be planted in the parks and on the streets in the city arrived on Thursday night and will be planted immediately under the direction of the committee.

Both the Denver & Rio Grande and the Denver, Texas & Gulf railways will sell excursion tickets to the races which take place in Denver on the 25th, 27th and 29th of this month.

The Colorado Springs hotels and boarding houses are filling up rapidly, and from present indications more transient people will visit and spend the summer here than ever before.

Mr. E. F. Miller, who has been conducting the revival services at the First M. E. church during the past week, will remain over Sunday and assist in the services both morning and evening.

"Needham's Failure," by Joseph Hatton, a very interesting story, has just been received by Bacon & Griswold, who will be pleased to give a copy to all that will call at their shoe store.

Fairley Brothers have leased the store on Tejon street recently occupied by D. Ashby and will on Monday morning open up a line of cheap and second hand furniture at prices that will astonish the natives.

The programme given at the benefit for the Free Reading room last night gave universal satisfaction and there should be a large attendance at the matinee this afternoon when the same programme will be presented.

On and after the 15th of May the Denver & Rio Grande will sell excursion tickets from Denver to Manitou. Tickets good to come Saturday and return Monday will be $3.50. To come Sunday and return the same day $2.50.

"The sale of reserved seats for "Measure for Measure" will begin at Bell's drug store this morning. Notwithstanding the heavy expense in getting this company, the prices will remain as usual: Parquette, $1.25; parquette circle, $1; balcony, 75 cents; gallery 50 cents.

Mr. Gregg gives a notice of the entertainment given at the opera house last night under the head of Religious World. As a whole the entertainment was exceptionally interesting, the musical numbers in particular being well received. The same programme will be repeated this afternoon.

Read over W. W. Wishon's advertisement in this morning's GAZETTE and see what he has to offer in his line. His stock of clothing, boots and shoes, hats, caps and furnishing goods is about as complete as it is possible to make it and he proposes selling at prices that cannot help but bring trade. Call at his store on Pike's Peak avenue and inspect his stock.

James Slater, Joe Baker and Frank Jones were arraigned before the police magistrate yesterday morning charged with vagrancy. The two former were found guilty and fined $10 and costs, but as there was no evidence against Jones he was discharged. Both Slater and Baker are at work on the streets and ought to be kept there until their fine is paid up.

We are requested by Mr. Perkins to give notice that the time fixed by law for the return of schedules of property for taxation for the year 1886 will expire on the twentieth instant. The law requires the assessor to list for taxation the personal property of all persons who refuse or neglect to make schedules of the same, and this will be done in all cases where practicable.

Mr. Reuben Berrey has been making some much needed improvements to his Pike's Peak market. The unsightly balcony has been torn away from the front of the building and a new canvas awning substituted. By the tearing away of a stairway the width of the interior of the building has been increased five feet thus giving more room for his rapidly increasing business. Other improvements are in progress.

There will be no service at the M. E. church this evening. On Sunday morning love feast at 10 o'clock, regular service at 11 o'clock. A short service after Sabbath school and the regular services in the evening commencing at half past seven sharp. The singing evangelist, E. F. Miller will take part in all the services as this will probably be the last of his work which has been very successful. All are cordially invited to be present.

Col. C. W. Kittridge of South Park arrived in the city yesterday and registered at The Alamo. The colonel tells us that the talk the ranchmen are making of passing through the winter without losing any cattle is all bosh. To the contrary he says that the loss has been very heavy. Had he not been supplied with abundance of hay with which to feed stock he estimates that he would have lost 400 head and perhaps all that he had.

Mr. W. H. Tucker and Mrs. Flora T. Miller were married yesterday, Rev. J. C. Hay, formerly pastor of the Christian church in this city, officiating, assisted by the present pastor, Rev. A. B. Griffith. A host of friends will extend congratulations. Mr. Tucker is widely and favorably known in this community as connected with the dry goods house of Mr. Edward Ferris. Mrs. Tucker has for two years taught in our public schools commanding the esteem of patrons and endearing herself to the little folks. The newly married couple will make their home at No. 609 South Cascade avenue.

It is very likely that the council will adopt the plans and specifications submitted by the King Iron Bridge company as Mr. Marsh, the agent of the company, has been asked to stay over and meet the council again, on Monday night. Their plans provide for a 100 feet iron span, 15 feet wide, resting on tubular iron piers, which without approaches or planking will cost in the neighborhood of $4,500. In addition to this the banks of the stream both above and below the bridge will have to be protected with brush and poles or riprapped with slag, which will involve a further outlay of $500 or $1000. While the aldermen feel that this expenditure taken in connection with the $10,000 in school bonds will fall a little heavy on the tax payers they consider that the construction of a substantial bridge and one that will stay is a matter of economy in the long run.

Irrigation Water from Ditches.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNERS.

Read the following sections of An Ordinance relating to ditches and the distribution therefrom for irrigating purposes:

SECTION 7. All persons wanting their premises irrigated from the ditch water shall connect their premises with the ditches by a box across the sidewalk not less than sixteen inches wide and eight inches deep in the clear. The sides of said boxes to be constructed of two inch plank and to be properly covered on the top, said box to be buried in such manner that the top of the same will not prevent overflowing water, and shall provide one box for each fifty feet frontage of land or fractional part thereof.

SEC. 8. The flooding of premises for irrigating shall be done exclusively by the superintendent of irrigation, his deputy and men under his charge, and the maximum time allowed for irrigating each fifty feet frontage of land shall be fifteen minutes.

SEC. 10. Any person turning the water from the ditches on their own or on others' premises without permission from the superintendent of irrigation, shall be deemed guilty of an offense and upon conviction therefor be fined not less than five dollars nor more than fifty dollars.

SEC. 11. Any person who shall wilfully obstruct any ditch constructed in compliance with the provisions of this ordinance, or divert or turn the water from the same, without permission from the superintendent of irrigation, or shall open, close, raise or lower any of the gates connected therewith, or interfere with the same in any manner, or shall interfere with the superintendent of irrigation, his deputy, or men in his employ, in any manner, or shall violate any of the provisions of this ordinance, shall be deemed guilty of an offense, and upon conviction therefor be fined in a sum not less than five dollars nor more than fifty dollars.

The mayor and committee in charge have investigated the irrigation of lawns and gardens, and find that but few of the boxes conducting the water from the ditches to the lawns are of proper size, and that if the boxes were of size required by the ordinance all will get all the water necessary.

It is desired that all should co-operate with the council in this matter by complying with the ordinance, and unless you furnish proper sized boxes, don't blame the council.

A strict compliance with this ordinance will be expected and enforced.

BY ORDER OF THE MAYOR AND COUNCIL.
